

1.0 Roger Haring

The "tool" I would like to share is called: "Volunteer." I will explain more at the workshop.

Volunteer (noun)

1. a person who freely offers to take part in an enterprise or undertake a task.

- a person who works for an organization without being paid.
- a person who freely enrolls for military service rather than being conscripted, especially a member of a force formed by voluntary enrollment and distinct from the regular army.
- a plant that has not been deliberately planted.
- Law: a person to whom a voluntary conveyance or deposition is made.

To Volunteer (verb)

1. freely offer to do something.

- offer (help).
- say or suggest something without being asked.
- work for an organization without being paid.
- commit (someone) to a particular undertaking, typically without consulting them.